Ismael Musoke, Service Coordinator in Childrens Social Care, worked closely with his mosque to organise this event. And, although they were unable to get their first-choice venue, they did secure Lloyd Park as an alternative, thanks to the hard work of Paula Hunt and Robin Ramen in the events team throughout the application process.

Local residents, friends and family attended the morning event. One of the mums said: “I really enjoyed attending the Eid at Lloyd Park. My kids had a great time, and we even had a bit of sunshine! It’s nice to have events that bring together in such testing and turbulent times.”

Ismael said: “Croydon ICT are keen on building on already positive relationship with Croydon Council and look forward to hosting future events in Croydon. This is a great example of council colleagues collaborating and building relationships with local partners and we hope that other colleagues can follow suit.”
